

WITNESS STATEMENT OF DAVID TRAMMEL

PERSONALLY APPEARED, David Trammel, who, being duly sworn, stated as follows:

1. My name is David Trammel. I worked at Nan Ya Plastics Corporation, America's Lake City, South Carolina plant for 16 years. I left to take another job last year. I began working in November 1991 as a Production Supervisor in the POY-1 Area. I also served in several different capacities before becoming the Assistant Section Manager in Quality Control. I later became the Quality Control Section Manager.
2. I knew Cheryl Powell while I worked for Nan Ya. I was either an Assistant Section Manager or Section Manager in QC while she worked in the department as an Administrative Assistant. There are two QC offices, QC I and QC II. There were times when Cheryl Powell and I worked together in the QC I office. Towards the end of her employment, she worked in the QC II office and I worked in the QC I office. These offices are physically separated by several hundred yards.
3. At the time of Cheryl Powell's termination, Bruce Chen was the Director of Quality Control. He was my direct supervisor. I was Quality Control Section Manager and Travis Hyman was Quality Control Assistant Section Manager. Steve Page was the Section Manager for QCAP or Quality Control Auto Packing. My office was in the QC I office. Travis and Steve were in QC II. Bruce Chen has several offices, including one in QC I and QC II. He moved from place to place.
4. There were three Administrative Assistants in the QC Department. They all worked for Bruce Chen. However, Steve Page and I alternated in evaluating Administrative Assistants. There was no set pattern as to when Steve would evaluate them and when I would evaluate them. Bruce Chen usually used me for any personnel type issues, such as disciplinary actions, etc.

5. The document marked as "Defendant's Exhibit 6," and attached to this statement, is a Personnel Evaluation I completed for Cheryl Powell in 2004 for performance year 2003. She received a "C" which is an "improvement needed." This means that she received no raise. Out of the 70 employees in my section, there was usually no one who received a ranking that low. I cannot remember there ever being more than one "C" in any given year.
6. In Defendant's Exhibit 6, I noted that Cheryl had a problem with punctuality. This was typical throughout her employment. Cheryl had chronic issues with being late to work and late to lunch. It was usually only five or ten minutes. We would verbally counsel Cheryl and work with her. She would get better for a while and then she would return to her old lateness patterns. Because of the Managers' duties in the plant, often Cheryl could come to work or return from lunch late without us knowing. However, when we saw her, we would try to encourage her to be more punctual. I specifically noted in Defendant's Exhibit 6 that punctuality was an issue and she said she would be more punctual. However, this did not last.
7. I also noted in Defendant's Exhibit 6 that she needed to repeat instructions and training. Cheryl could answer the phone, file documents, and make copies. However, she continually struggled with learning even the most basic computer programs. She could not be relied on to accurately run reports, retrieve information from the computer system or the like. At times, I can remember other Admin Assistants complaining that we always went to them for the more complex jobs because Cheryl just could not do the work.
8. The entire time I was working in the QC Department of Nan Ya, Cheryl Powell was the worst Administrative Assistant we had. We all liked Cheryl as a person and covered for her, but she always struggled to achieve marginal performance.
9. The attached document called "Defendant's Exhibit 5" is a Performance Evaluation I did for Cheryl in 2003 for calendar year 2002, I noted that she needed to focus on time management. This was a reflection of her continual tardiness problem. I also noted that she needed to understand reports, etc. She received a "competent" ranking which qualified for her pay raise. At this point in her career, Cheryl had been there several years and should have started developing into an experienced Admin Assistant. However, she failed to do so and continued to have tardiness problems.

10. The attachment marked "Defendant's Exhibit 9" is an employee evaluation I completed in 2005 for calendar year 2004. I noted that she was "improving" and that she felt that she had the ability to do better. I also said that she needed to learn more computer skills and improve her speed. Cheryl was still a marginal employee at this time and had tardiness problems. However, if I had marked her as "needing improvement" for a second year in a row, her employment would have been terminated. For this reason, I said what little positive I could say about her to save her job.

11. The attachment marked "Defendant's Exhibit 10" is an evaluation I gave Cheryl Powell in 2006 for calendar year 2005. I still noted that she needs to work on her technical abilities with reports, charts, etc. Cheryl continued to have problems. I noted her strengths to be "office housekeeping" and "courteous phone skills." This should show that I was struggling to find something nice to say about her on her evaluation. This was the last evaluation that I gave Cheryl while she was at Nan Ya. After that, Steve Page evaluated her for a couple of years.

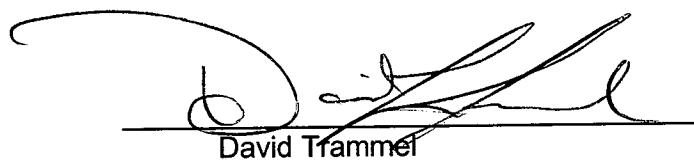

12. I was involved in a warning that was given to Cheryl Powell on February 21, 2007. It is attached and marked as "Defendant's Exhibit 11." I correctly noted that we had discussed attendance issues with her for years. I then warned her because she was five minutes late on February 15, 2007 and four minutes late on February 20, 2007.

13. Even though these were not long periods, they were very typical of Cheryl's tardiness patterns. Defendant's Exhibit 11 was a result of a Bruce Chen personally observing Cheryl being late on several occasions. Bruce was only in the QC Office from time to time. He told Page and me very pointedly that he wanted something done about Cheryl's tardiness. In fact, he told us he did not believe we were doing a good job as Section Managers if we could not get her to work on time. We knew Cheryl had had a continuing problem with tardiness so we gave her a written warning. I met with Cheryl, Steve Page, and Travis Hyman to give her the warning. Cheryl became upset and said that she did not think four or five minutes tardiness would really matter because of the "lax" atmosphere. At some point during the conversation, we told her that tardiness was not professional. She then said that other people in the office made unprofessional comments. She mentioned that some people have said that employees must get "under the boss' desk to get a promotion."

14. When I heard this comment, I told her that I would have to have Personnel investigate due to our Harassment Policy. She did not want Personnel to investigate, but I told her that under the Company's Harassment Policy, I had no option. I reported this to Eric Stevenson in the Personnel Office. It is my understanding that he conducted an investigation. I was not involved in the investigation. However, he followed up with several people.
15. Several days later, Cheryl was late again coming back from lunch. I was surprised that she was late again so soon. We gave a letter of counseling on March 1, 2009. It is attached as "Defendant's Exhibit 12." We made comments on the counseling that indicated she believed the counseling was connected to her upcoming evaluation. All we wanted her to do was to come to work on time. Cheryl made several comments regarding managers' use of time in the office. Managers should be using their time efficiently like everyone else. However, managers do not get paid overtime. The managers of Nan Ya usually come to work between 7:00 and 7:30 in the morning and work past 5:00 in the afternoon.
16. Cheryl's employment was terminated a couple of months later. I do not remember the exact date. I was not personally involved in the termination.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1746, I declare under penalty and perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Initial Preparation By

(Immediate Supervisor)

D. H. P. Date 3/1/04

Employee's Comments:

- ✓ 1. I have purchased an entire self help instructional book to teach myself more on technical issues when doing daily work.
- ✓ 2. I have started taking notes so I will always look back, this will improve my mistakes, therefore producing accuracy.
- ✓ 3. I will try to be more punctual & more helpful to cover for Ann & Main.

| 1. SAFETY | Data Entry for Safety Council Mtgs. Provide the paperwork for topic to be trained. Alert superv. When any employee did not get trained. | New Year | There is so much more to Safety Training than data entry. Demonstrate safety by wearing proper PPE in the restricted areas. Reported to Safety of the need for a ring to be placed in the clock in/out house to prevent a slip/fall when the ice storm hit. | Good. - Need to promote Safety by everyone to get pasted. | 9/10 |
| 2. RESPONSIBILITY | To be precise and accurate, pay close attention to detail and instructions made to me by my Department Head as well as my immediate supervisor. Push for the Excel program to be reinstalled to generate error free COA's. This will provide a more controlled COA that will show the customer a little variance in the different lots. Much time saved by using the Excel worksheet comparison than looking up previous history in the hard copies due to not accessible on access program. | New Year | Access program works well with the COA request by customers. Production of staple fiber is better, less changes are being made to COA's. | - Same Errors in COA, must strive for 0 more. - Waiting for being LATE, and Counseled by Mgr. | 5/10 |
| 3. COST CONTROL | To encourage limited usage of supplies and monitor the budget for the lab and report status to manager. | New Year | Created the record keeping system. Keeping a copy of store stock issue requests in the labs so the following shift will not order duplicates. | - Need to Set a Goal and show improvement. - How else can you reduce costs? | 7/10 |
| 4. CUSTOMER SERVICE | Become more knowledgeable of all types of Staple Fiber requirements and the customers expectations. Deliver | New Year | Provides the customer with a certificate that assures the fiber purchased is what they need. | Good | 6/10 |
| 5. HOUSEKEEPING | Maintain a clean kept office, which includes filing. | New Year | Focusing on a clean, organized office and desk area. | - OK - Do what I am told to do, be a team player, help where I can be of help to someone. - Need more initiative. - Follow instructions. | 7/10 |

SUBJECT: Warning

In the past years, we have discussed attendance issues with you and you have received various disciplinary actions. After a period of correction on your part, we are again observing tardiness.

On 2/15/07 you were observed by Mr. Steve Page being 5 minutes late to work. On 2/20/07, the QC Director observed that you were late to work by 4 minutes. These occurrences warrant a Written Warning because you are a representative of our office management team. You should be an example of good attendance practices and not the exception to them.

The following is a list of corrective actions that must be adhered to in order to avoid further serious disciplinary actions:

Corrective Action Plan

1. Do not be late to work or from lunch break.
2. Take appropriate breaks according to policy.
3. Do not miss excessive amounts of time from work.
4. Follow all policies and guidelines in QC in order to set a professional example for others.

I will correct the problem listed above without delay.

Letter of Counseling
NPCA - SC

Sect./Dept.: QC Department

Date: March 1, 2007

From: David Trammel

To: Cheryl Powell

Re: Tardiness

We have spoken to you on several occasions regarding the importance of punctuality and we have stressed this same issue in your evaluations. On 9/15/04 you received a Letter of Counseling because of poor performance including arriving late and leaving early. At that time you were told, "Any further problems, including attendance, will result in further disciplinary action, up to and including termination." Last week on 2/21/07 we warned you again about a growing problem with tardiness. In our discussion, you clearly indicated that you did not think that punctuality was very important. (VS management's unprofessional actions in the office for more than 1/2 hour.)

We are very disappointed that one week after our meeting, you were late again coming back from lunch on 2/28/07. We are giving you this Letter of Counseling to stress to you that this pattern of behavior is not acceptable and will not be tolerated.

While we want you to be successful here, it is important that you demonstrate that you are willing to meet our expectations. Again be advised that additional problems, including attendance, may result in further disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

I have read and understand this letter.

Cheryl Powell

Being late comes from deciding to go by Personnel, water. The closer it gets to evaluations it seems that tardiness becomes an issue. I expect to be evaluated on quality of work, not just time off a month. This seems to be a problem with personality or trying to get rid of me because of upper management request! This is a problem I have w/ management.
